

Position:
Art Historian, Arts of Africa and/or the African Diaspora

Rank:
Visiting Assistant Professor

The Newcomb Art Department of Tulane University in New Orleans seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor in the history of the visual arts of Africa and/or the African Diaspora, for 2009-2010. Teaching will include lecture courses and seminars to undergraduate and graduate students in the area of specialty. The position interfaces with African and African Diaspora Studies and potentially with the Cuban and Caribbean Studies Institute and the Stone Center for Latin American Studies. It is supported by excellent research resources in New Orleans and at Tulane, including the Amistad Research Center. Travel and research funds are available. Ph.D. in hand or near completion and teaching experience desirable.

The Newcomb Art Department is one of the strongest of the departments within the School of Liberal Arts at Tulane. Its dynamic and growing art history faculty enjoys a very collegial environment, flexibility in course offerings, accomplished and engaged students, and small class sizes.

Please send letter of application; curriculum vitae; and names, addresses, telephone numbers, and e-mail addresses of three referees to Professor Elizabeth Boone, Chair, Newcomb Art Department, Tulane University, New Orleans, LA 70118. Applicants are encouraged to submit their applications electronically at aadsearch@tulane.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10, 2009, and continue until the position is filled. Tulane University is an equal employment opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate. Women, Minorities and Veterans are encouraged to apply.